

Chris van Uffelen

extreme MINIMALISM

Architecture

BRAUN

WEINKULTURGUT LONGEN-SCHLÖDER

Holiday in the vineyard. Take a seat in the garden of your little stone cottage and enjoy a powerful Riesling... Cheers!

This 6,500-square-meter, family-owned property offers its guests the chance to re-connect with nature. Italian architect Matteo Thun, well known for his holistic and sustainable approach to architecture and interior design, has supported the family's project with integral planning and implementation. Nestled into the orchard, the new vineyard houses convey the philosophy of the Longen family. Surrounded by fruit and walnut, lime and chestnut trees, Longen's guests live in small houses built with local stone. Each of the 20 houses has access to a small wooden terrace and a private garden. The design of the 20-square-meter slate houses is pure, bright and clear. Lots of wood, plenty of white, original fabrics and natural materials determine the interior's composition. The project has been awarded the Architecture prize for wine 2013.

Architects | Matteo Thun & Partners
Landscape architect | Johannes Cox
Local architects | Stein-Hemmes-Wirtz
Project address | Kirchenweg 9, 54340 Longuich, Germany
Gross floor area | 900 m²
Main materials | slate, wood
Completion | 2012

