

WATER BOTTLE FOR VALVERDE

A bottle made of clear glass, crystal as water. A classic form, a bottle with a skilful light profile. Outside, a silver label, nearly invisible, fluid as water. Inside, Valverde water, crystal as its bottle. A light water, like its light profile. A water that flows out from the rocks, with silver reflections, like its label. Inside, a coloured vivid image, a modern herald seal. A flying and floating label, fluid like the bottle. A bottle that takes form from the water...

«What are you doing?» he asked. And he, in his turn, took me another question «Which is the form of water?». «Water has no form!» I answered laughing: «It takes the form you give it». (Andrea Camilleri, La forma dell'acqua)